

Water First:

An Inspiring Film from Malawi

November 1 • 7:00 - 8:30 p.m.
The Lewis Auditorium • Ground Floor

Through the inspiring story of Charles Banda, a humble, Malawian fireman turned waterman, we see how water is the solution to many of the problems in his impoverished, sub-Saharan country. From hunger and poverty to women's equality and population control, HIV/AIDS to environmental sustainability, Banda makes it clear that the best way to empower people is to put WATER FIRST. The film will be followed by a panel discussion with Alex Winter-Nelson, Scott Dossett, and Jim Locher.
